Dear Shri. Bhalla,

The Manohar Parrikar Institute for Defence Studies and Analyses (MP-IDSA), is a non-partisan, autonomous body of the Ministry of Defence dedicated to objective research and policy relevant studies on all aspects of defence and security. The Institute has a well-qualified multi-disciplinary research faculty drawn from Academia, Defence Forces and the Civil Services, representing a diversity of views. We conduct a number of studies for the MHA, MoD and MEA on a regular basis.

The atmosphere and the working ethos at the Institute imparts a great learning experience, helps officers to broaden their thought process by carrying out comprehensive research, participation in various seminars, webinars, international conferences and interacting with think-tanks and academicians from all over the world. The officers are generally on a two-year deputation during which they are provided state-of-art facilities. Shorter duration deputations can also be considered.

I take this opportunity to urge you to send one officer each from the IAS and IPS to join our premier Institute on deputation. This will go a long way in benefiting the Officer Cadre and will help them to excel and carry out detailed research in different fields. It will also in turn prove beneficial to their departments by giving the officers a wider understanding of security and strategic issues in the long run.

With kind regards,

Yours sincerely,

Sujan R. Chinoy

Sub: Nomination of IPS Officer on deputation to MP-IDSA

This has reference to your letter No.1-21023/19/2020. IPS-III dated 16th November 2020, addressed to the Director General, MP-IDSA, seeking clarifications on the above.

The officers to be deputed should be of service bracket between 8-15 years. There is no fixed eligibility criteria but the officers having research background in defence and security issues and/or international exposure would be preferred.

Administratively, officers deputed on study leave or posted on deputation are governed by the orders taken out by their respective Services from time to time, read in conjunction with the orders issued by the central government. During this period, the officers continue to draw their pay and allowances including HRA from their respective Services. MP-IDSA has a restricted pool of accommodation on campus for its scholars, which may be offered based on availability.

Yours Sincerely,

Col Rajeev Agarwal (Retd)

Assistant Director
